

what's going on @ORFOB, April 11

It is Sunday!!! But we have 3 programs in three locations that Sunday afternoon ...if you are interested in Poetry, Comic and drawings or want to hear from a holocaust survivor better to mark your Calendar for this day.

Sunday, April 11th:

2:00-3:30 pm. @ Huntington Main Library

Poems at an Exhibition.

Matt Wolfe presents his poetry. Matthew C. Wolfe of Huntington has been a full-time college teacher at Ohio University, Marshall University and West Virginia University. He has a Bachelor's degree in music performance and a Master's degree in music history from Marshall University, and a doctorate in medieval literature and books from West Virginia University. His published work includes selected poems in "Wild Sweet Notes, Vol. 2"; a mystical short story, "7:58," in Fantastical Visions; and "Placing Chaucer's Retraction for a Reception of Closure" in The Chaucer Review. In 2000, Wolfe wrote a full-length science fiction novel, HeartBeat. He also participated in and led talks for the Cabell County Public Library's Jewish Literature Series in 2008 and 2009.

2:00-3:00 pm. @ Huntington Museum of Art

Please forward this email to whomever you think might be interested.

Gallery Walk with Beau Smith,

Join Huntington native writer and artist Beau Smith in the Bridge Gallery at the Huntington Museum of Art. Mr. Smith, based in Ceredo, has been writing comic books for more than two decades. As well as producing his own work, Beau Smith has acquired a collection of original art works from many of the illustrators with whom he has worked. Smith has been collecting comic book art for over two decades, during which time he has also written for the major publishing houses in the field, as well as writing scripts for a number of movies based on comic book stories. As an author for comic books, Beau Smith has worked with Sam Glanzman, Brad Gorby, Flint Henry, Gary Kwapisz, Graham Nolan, Billy Tucci, Enrique Villagran, and many more. Various techniques and stages of development are represented in the collection. Beau Smith will be on hand for the gallery walk to give insight and instruction on these wonderful examples of the comic book illustrator's art. Admission is free.

5:30-7:30 pm. @ The B'nai Shalom Synagogue, Huntington

Holocaust Program

This is Home Now: Kentucky Holocaust Survivors will host an evening with Arwen Donahue, who has made an important contribution to Holocaust survivor literature.

For more information or location, click on Hyperlinks in blue color.

<http://ohioriverbooks.org/>

Please forward this email to whomever you think might be interested.